

CALENDARS for 1884 are bobbing along A DOZEN eggs are now worth as much as a large ben.

For holiday printing of low prices call at the BULLETIN office.

LOOK out for F. H. Traxel's holiday advertisement to-morrow. PAUL HOEFLICH & Bro. are selling children's wraps at very low prices. They have a large stock. JOILE MR. PERRY RUDY has sold his grocery store at the corner of Second and Wall streets, to Mr. James Graham.

THE case of Cummins against the Commonwealth, from Bracken county, bas been affirmed by the Court of Appeals, Don't forget that the dog question is also to be voted upon at the January election. They are almost as great a nuisance in Maysville as the hogs.

A Lor on Grant street, belonging to was sold at public vendue on Monday, by of Chester. Mr. George C. Goggin, to Mr. Louis Zech, for $1,120. The lot had on it two den & Co. manufacturing chemists, New frame dwellings.

Twelve prisoners, convicted of violations of the Internal Revenue laws, by the United States court at Covington, have been brought to Maysville for coafinement in our jail. The sentences were generally thirty day imprisonment and $100 fine.

MRS. JOHANNA LIPP, who celebrated her one hundredth birthday yesterday, was visited by about three hundred and fifty persons from this city and Cincinnati. She received many presents of fruits, wines and other articles. She expressed herself very grateful for the kind attention shown her and was very much pleased to meet so many of her friends. At night she was serenaded by Haucke's band.

THERE is a scheme on foot to have a grand procession on Christmas day. The plan, if carried out as determined upon, will make it the most interesting affair ti at ever took place in Maysville. There will be ten or twelve scenes illustrating ingron, in our midst Sunday. well known Maysville features, the hog not excepted, and all on wheels. A committee will go to work to-morrow, soliciting contributions of money to aid movement,

WE have accidentally omitted mentioning the death of a distinguished per sonage of this community-"Old Jim," the horse used by Major Chenoweth in his campaigns during the war. He died on Thanksgiving day, at the ripe old age of twenty-nine years. He was an animal of fine points, remarkably intelligent, we welcome you—wish you had bought the whole tract. was noted as a jumper, and on one oc-casion saved his owner's life, when hard pressed by the enemy, by going over a high fence that was an obstacle to the retreat. "Old Jim" took part in the Confederate parade last June, and was Confederate parade last June, and was the recipient of many attentions from the boys, many of whom bivonaced with God's or Mammon's? him during the war. He was a faithful animal, never flinched at the crack of a rifle or the bursting of a shell, and came up to roll-call on any and all occasions. Peace to the ashesof faithful "Old Jim."

Pleasant Incident.

At the close of Professor Leary's class in book-keeping, last night, J. W. Cartmel arose and presented him an elegant silk hat, the gift of his class. Mr. Cartmel, in his presentation speech, culogised the professor in the most flattering terms, alluding to him as a benafactor to the young men of Kentucky, asking him to accept the present as a testimonial of their friendship for him as a thorough gentleman, au eminent mathematician, an accomplished book-keeper and an unrivaled teacher.

The professor, on receiving the hat said:

Mr. Curimel and Gentlemen: On receiving this spi ndid present from your bands. I am overwhelmed with gratifude and find ianguage inadequate to express my feelings. The act, more forcibly than words, speak your appreciation of my efforts, and approval of my methods in imparting a useful knowledge. Should fate decree your pursuit in life commercial may you never halt in the unering law of perfect balance; and, no matter to what calling deatiny assigns you, may the principles of commercial integrity, which I have so carefully instilled into your minds, bring forth that reward of happiness you so richly deserve. When, at last, your days of usefulness are passed, and you are called beyond this mundane sphere, may the credit balance of your loss and gain account be so large that a bounteous surplus fund of eternation of the professor spoke one-half hour in The professor, on receiving the hat said:

The professor spoke one-half hour in the foregoing strain, much to the enjoyment of his class. He is endeared in the hearts of his pupils here and elsewhere. We doubt if any man of his calling has so many warm-hearted friends. He will leave Maysville soon for a new field of labor, at Portsmouth, O., and will be followed by the heartfelt wishes of his numerous friends in Maysville.

STONE LICK.

Elder Keys preached at Stone Lick Sunday. We have a new kind of religion. It gives the people the "swells."

There were a good many people from Mays-lick at church at Mt. Gilead Sunday.

Mr. H. Clay Stone very hospitably enter-tained several of his friends Sunday last. We were among them and enjoyed the dinner exceedingly well.

A batchelor friend of ours being tired of "single blessings," calling upon a young lady and not having previously sent his card had to hant her up. He will know how next time.

We are very sorry to hear of the illness of our esteemed frierd, Miss Maggie Laytham. We hope, however, that it is only temporary, and that she may be convaiescing in a few

It is a very great mistake to suppose the religion of our Saviour is disgraced by the misdeads of those who professed to be its friend. The "disgrace" was, if it all, by their coming in, their going out was a relief.

Mr. Bosil Calvert contemplates moving to Kunsas in the spring. Our best wishes go with him. He is a good Democrat and we hope his vote will be there as it has been here—always on the side of a free white man. An old sore-legged trainp came to Mr. Far-row's house and begged to te taken in for his board. He stayed five months and be-came such a birden that Mr. Farrow was re-heved when he left, and now he has sued him for wages. Such cases should not, it seems to us, bear an action. For humanity's sake they are taken in and treated like human beings, and like the viper that was warmed into life turns and stings.
